

Speaker Release for Video and Audio Recording

As a presenter at the 2022 Canadian Critical Care Review (CCCR) on April 8-9, 2022, I hereby grant the CCCS license to capture all of my presentation content through video and audio recording and that such recordings will be owned by the CCCS. I grant the CCCS the right to use my content in such recordings as well as in associated material (including but not limited to PowerPoint, handouts and/or video files) in the publishing of event-based materials for/from the event described above for distribution to registered attendees and/or at a later time as educational based materials with other CCCS stakeholders. The CCCS may use some or all of these components either in whole or in part, synchronized or not.

I represent and attest that I have the right to grant such permission based on copyright law and that I have obtained permission to use any third-party material for the purposes as set out herein.

I hereby indemnify and hold harmless the CCCS its directors, officers, agents, employees, clients and all other stakeholders from all copyright claims of every kind on account of such use.
